SYNOPSIS OF CONTENTS

You will find the information compiled in the following order:

First—Advertising pages, title pages and indexes.

Second—Skagit County descriptive sketch and towns arranged alphabetically with the names in each of the towns following sketch of same. These lists include the names of individuals (not firms) taken from the County Personal Tax List, as well as the names of all people living on Rural Delivery Routes, making the list for each town complete in itself. Instead of having three separate alphabetical lists of names for each town, viz (1) following sketch, (2) Rural Route list, and (3) Tax List, you will find all the names for each town following sketch of same, making one complete alphabetical list for each town. This method of compilation, by avoiding a duplication of names, condenses the information into a smaller volume, and still maintains its accuracy.

Third—Classified Business Directory of Skagit County, compiled, first by business, second by town, third by name.

The names of married women (in parenthesis) follow husband's name and the amount after a name indicates the assessed valuation of personal property, as shown by County Tax Roll.

Respectfully,

THE PUBLISHERS.

SKAGIT COUNTY DIRECTORY (1921-22)

POLK'S SKAGIT COUNTY DIRECTORY 1921-22

MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION

The northern line of Skagit county lies just 25 miles south of the international boundary between Washington and British Columbia. It is bounded on the north by Whatcom, on the south by Snohomish, on the east by Okanogan and Chelan counties, and on the west by San Juan county, which is entirely made up of the most attractive scenic island group in Western America.

Skagit county is 78 miles long, and extends from the San Juan archipelago on the west to the summit of the Cascades on the east. The county is 24 miles wide and has a total area of 1,872 square miles, or 1,198,080 acres, 184,320 acres of this surface being water.

The chief islands of Skagit county are Fidalgo, Cypress, Guemes, Sinclair, Vendovia, Burroughs and Allen's. They are well timbered and contain a variety of mineral deposits, while their shores afford most advantageous locations for scores of salmon traps during the fishing season. The eastern end of the county is mountainous and is occupied by 477,000 acres of the Washington Forest Reserve. In these highly mineralized mountains, covered by billions of feet of standing timber and affording unlimited water power, rise also many tributaries of the Skagit river, the north and south forks of which originate respectively in British Columbia and Snohomish county. The Skagit is the longest and largest river in western Washington and for many miles it is navigable through the richest farming and dairy lands, deltas, beaver marshes and reclaimed agricultural areas in the Evergreen state.

RESOURCES

In wealth of standing timber, Skagit leads all the counties of the Puget Sound region. Assessed standing timber, according to the county commissioners' official cruise, amounts to 12,400,005,000 feet, and is made up of the following varieties: Fir, 5,855,375,000 feet; Cedar, 3,001,843,000 feet; Spruce, 52,350,000 feet; Hemlock, 2,548,635,000 feet; Larch, 918,847,000 feet; White Fir, 2,020,000 feet; White Pine, 20,908,000 feet. All varieties in the school grants and Forest Reserve amounts to 4,100,000,000 feet, making the grand total of Skagit county's standing timber 16,500,005,000 feet.

(1921-22) R. L. POLK & CO.'S

The county has 200,000 acres of logged-off land, 16 kinds of soil, 39,000 acres of dyked land and 158 miles of railroads.

Skagit county produces in abundance all kinds of farm, garden, orchard, dairy and livestock products, poultry, game, honey, fresh and salt water fish, oysters, clams, shrimps, crabs, coal, iron, gold, silver, copper, asbestos, talc, glass, sand and quartz, building stone, marble, brick and fire clay, lime Portland cement, tar, tar-oil, turpentine, fish oil, glue and fertilizers, many kinds of medicinal plants, roots, shrubs and trees, an abundance of pure soft water, and practically unlimited water power.

INDUSTRIES

With a population of only 33,338 (U S Census 1920), Directory estimate 1921, 40,000, Skagit county yet presents thousands of attractive opportunities for business enterprises and investment in the development of her rich and varied material resources. Diversified and intensive farming engage the attention of the great majority of her people, as the rich and enduring soils of her dyked bottom and bench lands offer certain and substantial remuneration for money and labor expended. Thirty-five acres of Skagit county berries produced a crop valued at $10,500. Vegetable seed growing is an industry yet in its infancy. Skagit county oats yield, supported by the affidavits of growers, reach 121, 133, 136, 172 and 177 bushels respectively per acre, and to substantiate these and other figures used in this article, the Anacortes or Mt. Vernon Chambers of Commerce will be more than pleased to furnish any official data that may be necessary.

Dairy farming is a most profitable enterprise.

Skagit county has 22 sawmills with a daily cutting capacity of 1,000,000 feet of lumber. The county also has about 60 shingle mills.

Skagit county has more than one-third of the great fish canning and salting industries in the entire Puget Sound region. The large salmon canning plants on Fidalgo and Sinclair island turn out a canned product that requires over 700 freight cars for transportation to eastern markets.

The only Portland cement factories north of California are the two immense plants at Concrete, Skagit county. Nearly $2,000,000 are invested and their daily output is 1,400 barrels.

The schools of Skagit county rank second to none in the state, and graduates from its high schools enter the State University and the State Normal schools, without examination.

CLIMATE

In point of climate, healthfulness and scenery, Skagit county and its neighboring islands have been called the "Play ground of America." The salubrious mildness of the ocean breezes contribute a rare environment at once of purification, physical health and joy of living.

There are no epidemics, and ague, malaria, chills, hay fever, etc., are entirely unknown. U. S. Army statistics prove the Puget Sound forts are the healthiest for soldiers of any occupied by the ANACORTES—The deep water shipping port of Skagit county, is situated on the north shores of Fidalgo island and has a population of (5,284 U S Census 1920), Directory Estimate 5,900. It has $2,550,000.00 invested in manufacturing plants, and its commercial enterprises are varied and substantial.

The city is 80 miles n of Seattle by steamer and 92 miles by rail. It is the western terminus of the Skagit branch of the Great Northern Railway, and enjoys both terminal and distribution freight rates.

There are five miles of deep water frontage and a land-locked harbor, with steamer lines to Puget Sound and Alaska points.

Anacortes has electric light and gravity water systems, 20 miles of cement sidewalks, 3 miles of paving, a fine sewer system, good police and fire protection, two weekly newspapers—the American and the Anacortes Citizen—two banks, 10 churches, free city and rural mail delivery to all parts of Fidalgo island from Anacortes postoffices, a postal savings bank, model public schools with 1,433 pupils, a free public library, 3 parks and an opera house seating 900 persons.

The assessed valuation of the City of Anacortes is $2,059,000.

Anacortes is the greatest salmon canning center in the world. Nine canneries operate during the season and they can pack to their capacity of 700,000 cases of four dozen 1-pound cans each, having a market value of $4,000,000.00. The city has three Bering Sea codfish plants, which in one year have packed 2,791,500 pounds of codfish, valued at $84,849.00. There are two fertilizer and glue plants, salmon mild-cure, fruit canning and ice plants; a creamery and glass factory.

The three large sawmills of Anacortes have a daily cutting capacity of 400,000 feet of lumber, and they give employment to 330 men who earn a monthly payroll of $16,919.00. The 10 shingle mills cut 1,430,000 shingles a day, employ 210 men in their operation and pay out $19,123.00 every month in wages. Statistics will fully verify the important fact that Anacortes has a greater variety of business and manufacturing industries than any other city of its size in the state of Washington.

The city enjoys both rail and water transportation, has the Western Union telegraph, one telephone system with about 750 subscribers, American Railway Express and eight daily mails.

The average rainfall as recorded by the U S Weather Bureau for the last nine years, is 25.45 inches annually, while the mean annual temperature for the same nine years is 50.4 degrees.

LA CONNER

Pop (U S census 1920, 516). Directory estimate 1921, 620.
First settled in 1870. A flourishing incorporated town, 10 miles southwest of Mt Vernon, the county seat, and 5 from Whitney Station, on the G N Ry, the nearest railroad shipping point, and 12 from Anacortes. It is on the Swinomish Slough (an arm of Puget Sound) and has steamboat connection with Seattle. Just across the Swinomish Slough is located the Swinomish Indian Reservation, which includes 7,000 acres of good fertile land. On the reservation are a church and a number of residences, in addition to Government buildings. Fort Whitman, with a battery of heavy guns, is located 2 miles s of La Conner. It has a bank, sawmill, machine shop, granite works, two of the largest seed gardens in the West are located here. There are electric light and water works; a large salmon cannery is also being operated to capacity; and a volunteer fire department. A fine 17-acre park (Pioneer Park) has recently been opened. A live weekly newspaper, the Puget Sound Mail, represents the district. There are three churches, hotel and many well-equipped stores. Union High School Dist. No. 5 is erecting a $50,000 high school and gym. Express, Northern. Two telephone connections. Six stages daily to Mt Vernon, fare 50 cents. Mail twice daily.

The La Conner District is recognized the country over as being the greatest for hay and grain (especially oats) growing. It is also adapted to fruit and general farming, as it has not only rich soil, but perfect climatic conditions. Dairying is being carried on to a considerable extent. Seed growing is an important industry.
